INFORMATION COLLECTION AND USE

The IPC collects Personal Data about you as an individual when you apply for a membership application to join the IPC. This personal data is required for the purpose of your participation in the IPC and is collected and retained only so that the IPC can contact you for administrative membership reasons and so that you can participate in IPC actions and meetings. "Personal Data" refers to any information relating to an identified or identifiable natural person.

When you register your email address on the IPC's website, this information is stored in our membership database, hosted by Memberclicks. Further, the IPC's membership application asks for personally identifiable information such as your name, email address, occupation, business address, and country.

For invoicing purposes, the IPC will use the above mentioned data to contact you for payment of membership dues. As such, this information is also stored and maintained by the IPC.

We will not share your personal information with any third parties except where:

- You have consented or asked us to share your information with third parties;
- We are using a third party service provider to provide services that involve data processing (Memberclicks), or;
- Where it is otherwise permitted by applicable law, or where we are required by law to do so.
